

NYS DTF Child and Dependent Care Credit by Place of Residence Beginning Tax Year 2002

Benefits of utilizing this data

The information contained in this dataset can be utilized for a variety of research goals. One benefit includes providing a yearly detailed distribution of the New York State credit by number of qualifying persons and filing status by county and/or region. With this information, a researcher can determine the impact that external forces such as population growth and economic conditions have on the credit for different areas of New York State. On a similar note, county to county comparisons can be made and using the data provided, other metrics such as average credit can be used for comparison.
